

Write Who, What & Where You Know

Inject some empathy. Put yourself or someone you know very well into your stories.

Main Topic:

Why are you passionate and/or how do you personally relate to your main topic?

How can you incorporate that connection into your story?

Protagonist:

In what ways do you relate to your protagonist?

How can you translate those traits into your story?

Antagonist:

In what ways do you relate to your antagonist?

How can you translate those traits into your story?

Setting:

Where is your story set? Fictional or Real place?

What makes you excited about this setting?

How can you make that setting come alive (without being overly descriptive or wordy)?
